BLACK LEGION EXECUTIONER TELLS STORY

Testifies in Hearing; His Lawyer Files Protest

Detroit, June 3.—(AP)—Dayton Dean, who confessed he fired the shots that killed Charles A. Poole, a young WPA worker, a few weeks ago and thus unwittingly exposed the existence of the Black Legion, hooded terrorist order, took the stand over the objections of his counsel at the examination of himself and 12 others today on murder charges, and said a "one way ride" was pre-arranged for Poole.

Dean said Harvey Davis, a "Colonel" in the black hooded organization, told him:

"It will be best to hang him, (Poole.)"

After taking the stand the court asked Dean if he wanted Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea to question him.

Nodding, Dean said under questioning:

"Davis told me Poole had broken his wife's ribs and blacked her eyes. He said there would be a meeting that night and told me to be there. He said he would take Poole out."

Announcement by McCrea that Dean desired to testify came after the state had completed its presentation of the defense had cross-examined Detective Sergeant John Harvill and Detective Charles Meehan in an effort to show that at least seven of the 13 defendants had not agreed to the plan to "punish" Poole.

Attorney Protests
Before Dean took the stand his attorney, Bernard Cruse, told the court he desired to withdraw because his client was acting contrary to his instructions. Judge Ralph W. Liddy told him to make a formal motion after Dean was heard.

Dean said that prior to the meeting of the band, he went to Davis' home where he learned that Davis had arranged for Poole to be ready to attend a "sandlot baseball club" meeting that night.

Shortly afterward, he testified, Ervin D. Lee drove him and Davis to the meeting. En route to the hall, he said, Davis remarked that Poole would be hanged. Lee replied:

"Yes, either that or shoot him."

Dean related that after reaching the meeting hall Davis made a speech asserting that Poole had beaten his wife and asking what should be done about it.

Took Guns Along
"Some said 'whip him,' some said 'hang him' and some 'shoot him,' Dean testified.

"Then Davis ordered me and Lee to 'go get Poole, and bring him in,' and asked for volunteers to go with us."

"You say Davis 'ordered' you; why did you take orders from Davis?" asked Prosecutor McCrea.

"He was a 'Colonel,'" Dean said.

"Did Davis tell you to bring the guns along?"

"No," Dean answered; "he assumed that I'd bring them."

Dean said he had a .38 and a .45 caliber revolver with him on the "one way ride."

Detective Sergeant Harvill testifying under direct examination yesterday said Dean told him he stood over Poole as the victim pleaded for his life, and with a revolver in each hand, fired five shots into his body.

Courtroom Jammed
The courtroom was jammed by the time Dean began his narrative of the ride to the lonely country road where Poole was shot to death the night of May 12.

He said Lee drove one of the cars to the spot, with Poole in the back seat "between Urban Lipps and me," and that Davis and three others whose names he said he did not know were in another car.

"There were two cars there when we finally stopped after going over a lot of crooked roads. Lee got out and walked back, and some of the others did too. They were looking for the car with the paraphernalia, the rope and so on."

Waited for Rope

"After a long wait," Dean went on, "Davis said he guessed the others must have got lost. He told me to get Poole out, so I pointed both my guns at Poole and said: 'Poole, get out of that car.' He said 'O. K.' and got out."

"Davis said to bring him over to him and told him that he would never have a chance to beat his wife again."

"You must have me wrong," Poole told him; "my wife's in the hospital."

"When Davis stopped talking I thought he was through with him."

TEACHER COACH OF ROCK FALLS SCHOOL DROWNS

Lyle Wilkins, aged 25, athletic coach and history teacher at the Merrill grade school in Rock Falls, was drowned in Rock river at 6:15 this morning when he fell from the apron of the lower dam there while fishing. His fall from the dam was witnessed by a boy, Laverne Hoffman, a pupil of the unfortunate man, and he summoned aid.

The Sterling and Rock Falls fire departments were summoned and firemen recovered the body at about 7:45 o'clock. After extended artificial respiration had been practiced the victim was pronounced dead.

Mr. Wilkins was known by local athletic coaches and grade school athletes, all of whom mourn his tragic death.

BODY RECOVERED.

LaSalle, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—The body of Tony Petrowski, 25, a life guard, of Chicago, who drowned Memorial Day while swimming in the Illinois river near Starved Rock park, was recovered from the river today. The coroner's inquest was set for tomorrow.

LEGISLATURE IN RECESS FOR GOP CLEVELAND MEET

Recess Delays Action on Registration Bill in Senate

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—While administration leaders pressed for a final senate vote tomorrow on the permanent registration bills, the legislature today decided that no sessions would be held next week during the Republican national convention.

The house adjourned until two weeks from today, but the senate refused to concur in the resolution.

Senator Louis O. Williams of Clinton, Horner floor leader, insisted that the election reform bills be disposed of this week, but Harold G. Ward, Chicago Democrat, said a quorum would not be present and that action would be blocked. The senate cannot pass the bills, which were approved by the house yesterday, before a mid-night session at the earliest.

Two senators are delegates to the Republican convention, but several more minority legislators said they planned to be at Cleveland for the nomination of a presidential candidate.

Reconvening was set for Wednesday the 17th, instead of the customary Tuesday session, because first bonus payments are to be made the 16th.

Will Have to Hustle

Because no sessions will be possible the week of the Democratic national convention, convening at Philadelphia on June 23, the assembly will be pressed for time in acting on permanent registration, old age pension amendments and constitutional amendments before the July 1 deadline on non-emergency bills.

There was hooting and cheering in the house late yesterday when the Fitzgerald-Hubbard bills for permanent registration of metropolitan voters passed, 94 to 30, getting ten more votes than were received for identical bills before the bitter Democratic primary.

House Republicans voted with the administration but denounced Gov. Horner, charging he caused the defeat of the election reform in 1935.

Claims Senate Votes
Horner men said the bills would pass the senate. L. O. Williams of Clinton claiming he had 30 votes if all could be assembled for the roll call. In March permanent registration got only 22 of the needed 26 senate votes.

The noisy house had no difficulty in piling up more than the 77-vote majority for the plan to require the permanent registration and signature identification of voters.

Bill Providing $461,000,000 for Federal Aid Highways is Sent to White House by House

Washington, June 3.—(AP)—Representative Cartwright (D-Okla.) co-author of the $461,000,000 Hayden-Cartwright bill providing federal funds for road construction, announced today the approximate amount each state would receive for regular federal aid highways, farm-to-market roads and grade crossing elimination.

The states must match the funds for the first two types of work. The grade-crossing allotments will be direct grants.

Congressional action of the measure was completed yesterday when the house adopted a conference report on it and sent it to the White House.

The figures prepared by Cartwright included:

	Federal Aid	Farm to Market	Grade Crossing
Illinois	$5,160,696	$1,030,000	$2,580,000
Indiana	3,067,613	620,000	1,280,000
Iowa	3,231,718	650,000	1,400,000
Missouri	3,896,856	760,000	1,540,000
Wisconsin	3,045,537	610,000	1,260,000

PENSION BILLS MUST BE PASSED BY HOUSE AGAIN

Another Roll Call Is Necessary as Some Members Left

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—The house once more must pass the old age pension amendments, because some of the representatives went home before the roll call was completed.

The vote was 103 to 2 for the emergency bill late yesterday. Then Rep. Reed F. Cutler, Lewis-town Republican, demanded that the roll call be verified.

Speaker John P. Devine ruled that verification was impossible because several members had left. He ordered consideration postponed, leaving the bill on third reading.

The measure, which hasn't reached the senate, would establish state control over old age pension administration so that Illinois can qualify for federal funds to make the maximum payments $30 monthly to the destitute aged.

Against "Ghost Voting"

Devine blamed Cutler for the parliamentary tangle and delay. Cutler said he was protesting against "ghost voting by Chicago Democrats."

The senate adopted the house joint resolution protesting that the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty isn't fair to Illinois. There was no roll call. The resolution was similar to others adopted by the legislature during recent years.

Without definite action and with no plans for future consideration of the issue, the house discussed proposals to amend the revenue article of the state constitution.

"The Supreme Court eventually will throw out the sales tax," declared Rep. Richard J. Lyons, Libertyville Republican.

Gunning Drops Proposal

Senator Thomas P. Gunning, Princeton Republican, said there was no need for further action on his resolution, introduced last week, charging that Gov. Horner was using state patronage in an effort to defeat Clyde E. Stone, Republican Supreme Court Justice, re-elected Monday in the Peoria district.

Gunning declared his resolution blocked the election of the Democrat backed by the administration. Senator James O. Monroe, Collinsville Democrat, also indicated he would drop his resolution for an investigation of charges that Horner padded the state payroll during the primary campaign, if his bill to prevent campaign payroll increases is passed.

HOFFMAN DROPS SCHWARZKOPF AS POLICE HEAD

Trenton, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman capped his criticism of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder investigation today by dropping Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf as superintendent of the New Jersey state police—a force he organized and led for 15 years.

The governor sent to the senate the name of Col. Mark O. Kimberling, state prison warden and once Schwarzkopf's deputy.

Kimberling was named to succeed the man who directed the police search which ended in the arrest, conviction and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the Lindbergh baby slayer. Kimberling supervised the execution.

Some observers believed strong sentiment in the state for Schwarzkopf's reappointment—evidenced by petitions from farm groups and women's clubs, and individual demands by private citizens—would lead to a senate fight against Kimberling's confirmation.

GRADUATED TODAY

Robert C. Barry, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Barry, former Dixon residents, graduated today from the college of Journalism at the University of Missouri, relatives here were advised.

MRS. MARY BENNETT LEACH IS CALLED TO REST

Mrs. Mary Bennett Leach, widow of the late Morris Leach, passed away at 11:45 o'clock this morning at the home of her son, James Leach in the Bend after an extended illness. Funeral services will be held at the First Christian church in this city Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. L. W. Walter and Rev. James A. Barnett officiating.

Mrs. Leach was born in New York City April 29, 1854, the daughter of James and Martha Bennett, who brought her with them to the present Bennett homestead in the Bend when she was but sixteen months old. There she was married Dec. 1, 1873, to Morris Leach, who preceded her in death March 29, 1922.

She was one of five children of whom only one, a brother, Samuel L. Bennett, survives, and was the mother of two children, Mrs. Martha A. Hughes, who died Dec. 1, 1915, and the son with whom she had made her home for the past 25 years. Three grandchildren also survive: Theo. J. Hughes, Mrs. Mary C. Peterson and Mrs. Ruth Biggs.

For over half a century Mrs. Leach was a member of the Lutheran faith and her pastor, Dr. Walter, will preach the sermon at her funeral.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL BE RECOMMENDED

Princeton Senator's Suggestion Is For Immediate Action

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—A committee of members of Gov. Horner's educational commission today prepared to draft recommendations to the Illinois legislature for a state board of education.

The commission late yesterday adopted the first section of its advisory staff's report and indicated that a special session of the legislature may be called to set up the board.

"There are some schools that won't open their doors in September unless we take care of them," said Sen. Thomas P. Gunning, Princeton Republican, asserting that the committee should ask for immediate legislation.

In discussing the move, some commissioners declared that the new board should be set up as soon as possible to study the school situation and make recommendations to the next regular session of the legislature. It was pointed out that Illinois is one of five states without such a board.

Serve Without Pay.
The proposed board would be non-partisan and its nine members, serving without pay, would be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate for nine-year terms so arranged that one vacancy would occur each calendar year.

Since the superintendent of public instruction would be made the ex-officio officer of the board, the commission recommended that that office be taken out of politics by constitutional amendment and the office filled by appointment by the board.

Sen. Harry C. Stuttle, Democrat of Litchfield and commission chairman, named Sen. L. O. Williams of Clinton and Representatives Joseph L. Rategan of Chicago and F. W. Lewis of Robinson, all Democrats, as members of the committee to draft the recommendations.

11 STUDENTS IN EASTERN SCHOOL HAVE PARALYSIS

Southboro, Mass., June 3.—(AP)—Infantile paralysis, in a blighting outbreak, has stricken eleven or more students of St. Mark's school, one of the most exclusive institutions in the country. One boy, Frederick W. Hubbel, Jr., of Des Moines, Ia., has died.

The tenth case recorded at the school itself came yesterday when George Stockwell was taken to Phillips House of the Massachusetts General hospital. In Chicago, Philip D. Armour IV of the packing house family, was stricken after he left the school following the outbreak. His case is described as light.

Southboro health authorities said they heard unofficially of a 12th case, a New York boy, who showed symptoms also after leaving the school.

With the outbreak, May 20, about half the students left for their homes and the remainder were quarantined.

Attempts of health authorities to trace the probable source of the disease have been fruitless. All remaining students undergo daily examinations.

Reynolds Township Farmer Robbed by Two Women During Struggle Tuesday

Gypsy Women Secured $145 From His Purse in Tussle

William Heinzroth who lives alone about a quarter of a mile south of the Reynolds church in Reynolds township, this county, was virtually overpowered and robbed in his own home yesterday afternoon by two women, whom he described as gypsies and for several hours after the robbery, sheriff's forces of Lee, Ogle, Whiteside and Bureau were enlisted in a hunt for the two women, of whom only meager descriptions could be given.

Heinzroth was alone in his home about 2:30 yesterday afternoon when he heard a knock at the kitchen door and going to the door was met by two women, whom he described as the gypsy type, both in appearance and dress. One of the women asked for a small quantity of salt, adding that it was to be used for a sick baby. The farmer turned to walk to a cabinet and procure the salt, when, he states, the larger of the two women sprang upon his back, and attempted to pin his arms at his side.

Heinzroth suspected robbery as the motive, and struggled for some time before he succeeded in shaking the large woman off his back. The smaller of the two women, who had stood guard in the doorway, then rushed to the assistance of her more buxom companion, and together they wrestled with the farmer, while he continued to struggle to free himself. After some minutes, during which the women chattered in a foreign language, they ceased their struggles and hurriedly left the house. Heinzroth then discovered his purse lying open on the floor and picking it up found but three pennies left in it.

Got $145 in Bills.
The women had rifled his pockets as they struggled and obtained the purse, extracting $145 in bills and then dropping it on the floor, left the place without the salt which they had sought. Heinzroth attempted to summon neighbors by telephone and finally sent a hurried phone call to the sheriff's office here and Sheriff Miller and deputies started for the home. Sheriffs of surrounding counties were also notified and as soon as a description of the two women could be obtained from the victim of the bold attack, it was broadcast through this section.

Heinzroth stated that he had not observed a car enter the yard at his farm, but did recall hearing an automobile nearby before the women entered and after they departed. Deputy Stoddard Danekas of Reynolds township was the first to reach Heinzroth's home after the robbery and immediately notified the Rochelle police. Nothing else was disturbed.

THIRD WIFE OF WIS. PROFESSOR GIVEN DIVORCE

Madison, Wis., June 3.—(AP)—Grace Golden enjoyed today her legal release from the "phobic prison" of William Ellery Leonard, which she entered by marriage to the University of Wisconsin professor 11 months ago.

The 28-year-old third wife of Leonard was granted a divorce from the eccentric philosopher and poet in Circuit Court last yesterday. Mrs. Leonard will receive $2,200 in cash and $1,800 in bonds under a settlement approved by the court. She was permitted to resume her maiden name.

Leonard, 60, was not in court as his golden-haired wife testified: "Life for the past two months became more and more a series of quibbles, misunderstandings and language. It became more and more impossible to stay there."

She testified that Leonard, a sufferer from a distance phobia aggravated by the suicide of his first wife 25 years ago, told others that she was insane, and a physician testified she had been in "an agitated, nervous state and unable to sleep" for a month.

SOME ODDITIES IN TODAY'S A. P. WORLD NEWS REPORT

SNEEZED TEETH OUT
Northville, N. D., June 3.—(AP)—Just after Elmer Hanson found a set of false teeth along a railroad right of way he was met by a searching party which claimed them for a locomotive engineer. The engineer said the teeth were blown through the window of his cab by a sneeze.

HADN'T PAID TAXES
Republic, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—When it was discovered that Mayor V. W. Shover and several aldermen had failed to pay their city taxes they handed in their resignations and a special election was called to fill the vacancies. Mayor Shover was re-elected.

EFFICIENT FIREMAN
Aurora, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—The firemen were conquering a blaze at the John Vago home when a tree for all light broke out among 50 spectators, some armed with ball bats. The firemen kept one hose on the fire and one on the crowd, putting both out with a loss to the house of $150.

FASTIDIOUS BIRDS
Yosemite, Calif., June 3.—(AP)—Yosemite National Park rangers have noticed the birds are getting not only lazy but fastidious. Once the birds left their roosts at daybreak to hunt worms, but now they leave that business to fishermen, say the rangers, and sit idly by until a motorist parks. They flutter down and pluck hot roasted bugs from the radiator.

DOOR LOCK STOLEN
Urbana, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—"If you find a door lock—complete with knobs and plates," a feisty feminine voice told Night Police Sergeant S. G. Reunier over the telephone early today, "please let me know. I'd like to look the front door to the Alpha XI Delta sorority house and go home for my summer vacation."

Sergeant Reunier sent a squad car to the sorority house, and on its return posted the following entry in his complaint book:

"Stolen, from Alpha XI Delta—one front door lock."

Chance of Early Adjournment of Congress Better

Washington, June 3.—(AP)—Congress improved its adjournment outlook today when House Democrats and Republicans reached an agreement which sped the $2,430,000 relief-deficiency bill to conference for reconciling differences with the senate.

Resort to a special resolution voted by the rules committee was not needed when Chairman Buchanan (D-Texas) and Representative Taber (R. N. Y.) and other Republicans reached an understanding on the floor for procedure to govern the house conferees in discussions with the senate.

This agreement directed that the conferees have authority to accept any or all senate amendments, except the $10,000,000 conditional expenditure authorized for the Florida ship canal and the $300,000,000 fund given the public works administration for grants. Buchanan will bring these back for separate house votes.

HIJACKER TO PRISON.
Chicago, June 3.—(AP)—Fred Turner, 46, a butcher, was sentenced to serve five years at Leavenworth prison by Federal Judge William H. Holly today after he pleaded guilty to possession of 200 pounds of butter, valued at nearly $4,000, hijacked near Lombard, Ill., on Nov. 26, 1934.

Every member of the post is for his own good, urged to be on hand to hear Mr. Fruin give necessary information about the adjusted compensation payment to be handled by the Post Office department. Ex-service men who have not seen fit to join up with the Legion are invited to attend this meeting.

RECKLESS TRUCK DRIVER CAUSED WRECK ON ROAD

A reckless truck driver was responsible for an accident on the Lincoln Highway west of Dixon at the Carlson curve last evening, in which a new sedan was demolished and a second truck was badly damaged. John Sedlin of Chicago, was driving west in a new sedan and at the Carlson curve, was sideswiped by an east bound truck. The impact threw the sedan against a second truck belonging to Charles Grover of Rawley, Iowa, which was hauling a load of cattle to the Chicago market.

The rack on the Grover truck was almost torn off the chassis and nine head of cattle were thrown out, one of the animals having a leg broken. State Highway Officer Edward Mahan was only a short distance from the wreck and took charge. The truck driver responsible for the accident failed to stop and police of Rochelle and DeKalb were notified and asked to be on the lookout for a damaged east bound truck.

Sedlin sustained bruises about the head, but was not seriously injured and the truck driver escaped with only minor bruises. The cattle were loaded onto another truck and taken to Chicago while both wrecked machines were hauled to a local garage.

57 CONTESTS TO BE BEFORE GOP. NAT. COMMITTEE

Cleveland, June 3.—(AP)—Fifty-seven contested convention seats, many of which have been in dispute for years, called the Republican national committee together today to listen to a round robin of grievances.

Color is the principal point that will be argued if the advance statements of the contestants gave any indication of what was in store for the afternoon session of the committee.

In the south spokesmen talked of discrimination against Negro delegates. In Alaska, there was a dispute between the white and Indian delegations.

Six complete delegations were in dispute. They were those from Florida, Mississippi, South Carolina, the District of Columbia and Alaska. In addition, two seats were being fought over in Georgia, one in Illinois, two in Oklahoma, one in Tennessee.

The arrangements for hearing the contests were completed after Chairman Henry P. Fletcher had announced that he would invite former President Herbert Hoover to address the convention and that there would be no notification ceremonies planned at this time. Previously, there had been talk of a notification ceremony immediately after selection of the candidate.

J. Willard Jones Made President of Funeral Directors

(Telegraph Special Service)
Springfield, Ill., June 3.—J. Willard Jones of Dixon, who is associated with his mother, Mrs. C. A. Jones in the undertaking business in that city, was today elected president of the Illinois Funeral Directors Assn. at the association's convention here.

He Offered to Get Me a Job
The day I was transferred and said there would be no obligations. I told him there was no way I could repay his favor, that I came of poor parents and had no money."

"It was then," Day said, "that Loeb made his first perverted proposal."

Said He Was "Wolf"
"He told me he was a wolf, but that I would learn about that later. Then he began a discourse on sex conditions in prison, x x x."

"I gave him a push," the defendant said, "and walked out of the library."

Convicted of larceny in Chicago, Day said he was sent to Pontiac reformatory on February 19, 1932, where he learned the blacksmith trade and some commercial work. He was transferred to Stateville in 1934.

Day said Loeb's insistent demands never developed into a fight three days before the fatal bathroom duel, when Loeb took off his coat and challenged Day to a fight in the office of the prison chaplain. The combat was avoided, he said, by the intervention of Geo. Bliss, cell mate of Day.

Sought Interview

On the morning of January 26, Day said, he went to Loeb's cell and asked if he could see Loeb later that day. Loeb agreed, the defendant related, and rendezvous was arranged for noon time. Repeating then the story he told following the slaying, Day said he arrived at Loeb's "private" bathroom five minutes before the latter appeared.

"Loeb began to undress," he said, "and I told him I wanted to get our trouble straightened out. Loeb said 'well, speak your piece.' It won't make any difference as far as my attitude towards you is concerned."

"I told him," Day went on, "that I was trying to get a parole and that I didn't want any trouble with him or any fight. I told him I

New School Building, Restoration of Teachers' Pay and Employment of More Teachers Approved

By a vote of approximately 9 to 5 voters of school district No. 170, in a special election held here Tuesday, approved an increase in the school tax of 40 cents per $100 property valuation; authorized the board of education to issue $175,000 in school bonds to finance purchase of a site on Lincoln avenue, to erect a new school building thereon and to restore the 1932 wage scale for Dixon teachers and the employment of additional teachers and a high school nurse. All six proposals submitted carried by about the same majorities and only in the east precinct, on the south side of the river was the result adverse to the proposals, the vote in the tax increase in that district being 239 for and 242 against.

In the west precinct on the south side the tax increase was approved 382 to 134; and on the north side of the river the vote was 303 for and 151 against.

HAND-SHAPES.
By Joseph Fort Newton.
"D" RAW my hand, Daddy," a little girl said to her father. So the tiny hand was laid flat on a sheet of paper and the pencil carefully guided around it.

When the hand was removed, the outline remained—a little flatter than the original, because the pencil was thick and not quite so sharply because the finger had moved a little.

Then, to make the picture more life-like, he sketched in the finger-nails and faint lines to show where the knuckles were. "There," she said, with satisfaction and turning the paper over rapidly, "Neither one, Daddy," and they started the process all over again.

Our hands, the palmists tell us, betray what we are. Large hands are never lazy. They get things done and are kind-hearted. Small hands are neat, precise and refined.

Square hands show honesty and forcefulness with justice even to the point of cruelty. Hands wide at the knuckles are never the same two days running—as changeable as April winds and showers.

Long fingers betray the artist and a disposition to flirt. Short fingers show a concern for money and position rather than friendship. Pointed fingers tell of method and tidiness.

There is a lot more for which there is no room—until one is afraid to look at his own hands, lest they give him away. But there is another side to the story which no palmist ever told correctly.

The human hand is eloquent beyond words—the open hand of welcome, the clenched hand of anger, the gnarled hand of labor, the thin hand of the frail and ill, and old hands, blue-veined and gentle.

But more eloquent still is the hand strong, swift, skillful, willing, ready to lift a load, or heal a wound, or help a fellow in his need; able to comfort by giving strength and courage to the weak.

What our troubled word needs—born by hate and fear and greed—is a League of Helping Hands; hands of love guided by truth.

 deportment, Evelyn Frances Reilly.

Medals for perfect attendance were merited by two, Bernard Forrest Thompson and Lenore Katherine Fane, and the two students drew, with Lenore Katherine winning.

Two medals were awarded by the American Legion and presented by Dr. Z. W. Moss. A vote was taken by the eighth grade and the teachers and the medals were awarded Elizabeth Lauretta Reilly and William Charles Williams.

Much credit may truly be given the kind Sisters and all teachers at St. Mary's for the progressive and deportment of their students in general, and the graduates, in particular.

Caps Vie With Silk Hats in New French Chamber

Paris (AP)—Nearly one out of every five deputies in France's new chamber is a manual laborer.

For the first time in history, working men in cloth caps will vie with silk-hatted business men and attorneys as the biggest group in the house. The laborers came in with the leftist landslide.

Two aviators are the first of their profession in the chamber. Business men have replaced lawyers as the most numerous group. The chamber will count 126 of them to 122 attorneys.

Teachers are in fourth place with 63. Then come 52 writers and newspapermen, 43 farmers, 39 physicians, 14 engineers, 3 clergymen, 3 retired military officers and one artist. Thirty-five deputies live on their incomes and list no professions.

BANK LIABILITY DISCUSSED

President Nirdlinger of the Illinois Bankers' Association, a Galesburg banker, called attention of the organization in convention to the fact that no new state bank charter had been issued since 1933. He did not say how many national bank charters had been issued in Illinois, but indicated that the national banking act now is more favorable because of elimination of double liability for stockholders.

He said he hoped the general assembly will allow the voters to pass upon a constitutional provision either limiting or, preferably, abolishing, double liability against owners of stock of state banks.

The national banking act provides for elimination of double liability, if a national bank so desires, after July 1, 1937. Many states have repealed laws providing for double liability.

It was possible to bring about this change in public policy and in law by first providing for guaranty of bank deposits.

We are not familiar with the reasoning by which laws were instituted generally providing for the double liability of holders of bank stock. It may have arisen from deep study into the history of old world financial institutions, or it may have had its beginning in the notion of one man who was able to throw a monkey wrench into the legislative machinery if his amendment were not adopted. We get legislation handed down to us both ways.

It readily will be seen that once such a provision is made in the law its removal becomes a difficult process. The demagogue always has been on hand to say that legislators are for capital and against labor and that they are for the bankers and against the depositors, though we all know that legislators most likely are to be with the outfit that can assemble the most votes. In the above cases it would be the laborers and the depositors. So it would be with much trembling that legislators would change the policy, once it were established, because of the clamor that would be raised against them when the next election rolled around.

Guaranty of bank deposits affords a reason for relieving an investor in bank stocks of any more liability than would be incurred in investment in stock in any other business.

Every investor in bank stock probably was aware of the double liability he assumed. Some persons who inherited it may not have been as fully advised. However, it is probable that thousands upon thousands of depositors went regularly to the banks and carried on their business without any knowledge that the stockholders were liable for double the amount of their stock, until banks began closing in large numbers and the newspapers consequently carried articles dealing with such subjects.

Practical working of the law is not exactly what it was in theory. The theory was clear. Neither the stockholder nor the depositor was much concerned about the law and its effect so long as the bank remained open. Knowledge of the practical working of the law now is widespread. The theory was that for every share of stock of par value of $100 there would be another $100 put up by the holders thereof in the event the bank closed. Well, it doesn't work that way in practice. It generally is known now that a large part of the stock had passed on from those who originally purchased it to heirs who did not have the amount of the double liability. Some of them lost all they had when they lost the bank stock. It generally is known now that persons who were supposed to be able to meet their liability had rendered themselves judgment proof and so far as the depositors were concerned it was just too bad. Others, by circumstances beyond their control, inherited stock too late to receive from it any of the returns incident to prosperous times, too late to be able to sell it, and just in time to be held liable for a double assessment. If a person inherits something that is worthless, he gets nothing, but if he inherits something that is nothing, and along with it a liability for $100 on each share, he gets something, all right, but something not at all desirable.

When the roll of stockholders has been called, it generally has been found that things are not exactly as they seem, especially laws.

Now the question has been raised as to whether or not in revising banking laws and in attempting to rejuvenate the banking system and to make bank stock desirable where it now is undesirable, the part of wisdom is to recognize the liability facts as they are in practice and not as they were in theory, and to take into account the effect in making the banking business again a desirable business rather than an undesirable business.

Congress set the precedent in revising the act governing national banks and their stockholders.

PILLAR OF SOCIETY

It is significant that the juvenile court judges of the country are seriously considering the organization of a national association of members of their profession, in an effort to improve the work of this particular judicial branch.

The juvenile court was created to meet a special need in our social structure. Unfortunately, however, says Judge Harry L. Eastman of Cleveland, it has continued to concern itself only with its immediate needs and problems, and has neglected to develop "a clear-sighted philosophy of its place in the social welfare pattern."

It has been said repeatedly by social workers and criminologists, judges and attorneys that the work of the juvenile court is of first importance in crime prevention. Any move to improve this vital unit of government is heartily welcome.

CIVILIAN "INSURANCE"

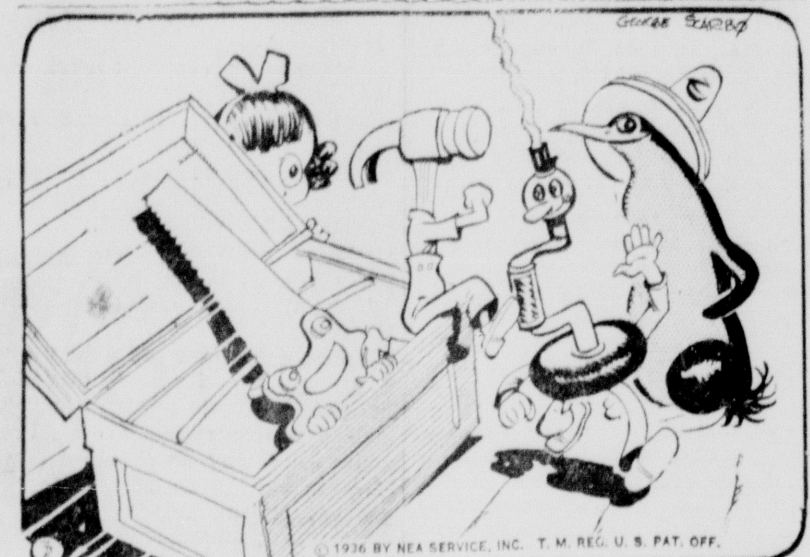

One million Boy Scouts are leading the nation in a drive to build up, in the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, the largest and most valuable civilian fingerprint collection in the world.

Decision of the Scouts to add their prints to the already voluminous file is a step toward the day when the distinguishing marks of all law-abiding citizens would be recorded voluntarily for protection against kidnapping, accident, loss of memory, or mistaken identity.

Department of Justice officials already report that the civilian file now started has proved of infinite value in countless cases. It is certainly desirable that the public volunteer in building up this civilian file. In a sense, it's a kind of insurance.

THE TINYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARDO

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The four clowns promptly went to work, and not one seemed to want to shirk. They found a real long bar. Said one, "With this we'll do our best."

"To have some patience kindly try, while we are working hard to pry the lid, so you can see what is inside this mistry chest."

Another then said: "Stop until we find out if the Tines will let us go on our merry way when we have done our task."

"Of course, we do not want to be your prisoners. That's plain to see. Just turn us loose so we can roam around. That's all we ask."

"It's granted," Scouty loudly cried. And then, once more, the lid was pried. "It's moving, now," one clown exclaimed. "We're meeting with success."

"One more good pull and we'll be through, and then you will see something new. Why, look! Fair Goldy's shaking. From excitement, is my guess."

Then, up the lid flew. "Hip, hooray!" exclaimed a clown. "Were on our way. You Tynymites can peek inside, to see what you can find."

"We hope 'twill bring you heaps of fun. We're thankful that our work is done, and now were going to scamper out of sight, if you don't mind."

"Goodby," one of the Tines cried.

And then the whole bunch peeked inside the chest. Out jumped three funny tools. One of them yelled, "Hello!"

"Now that you tots have turned us free, we are as anxious as can be to show appreciation. Just what can we make for you?"

"Why, they're alive," said Scouty. "Gee, that surely is a sight to see." Then to the three tools he exclaimed, "Can you work by yourselves?"

"Of course we can," the hammer said. "Just wait until I use my head. Why, we can build most anything, from carts to kitchen shelves."

(More erroneous conclusions are drawn from lack of INFORMATION than from lack of JUDGMENT.)

The ice in a new air-conditioned refrigerator--while circulating the air, chills--purifies and humidifies. It keeps the air from being dry, thus protecting the natural juices and flavors of foods.

The purification of air in the food compartment of any refrigerator is necessary for perfect food keeping since foods give off odors and gases. These odors and gases are absorbed by the film of water on the melting ICE and are carried down the drain pipe. It takes ICE to do this -- it can not be done with mechanics or substitution.

The ice cubes frozen in a chemical or mechanical refrigerator contain the same things that the drain pipe of an ice refrigerator contains. Is that an appetizing thing to put into your drinks?

Because of the air-conditioned chamber in a modern ICE refrigerator it is possible to keep side by side onions, fish, garlic, milk, butter, cheese, bananas, fresh meats, vegetables, etc.--all uncovered--without the faintest touch of food tainting.

In the air-conditioned ICE refrigerator it is not necessary to cover and wrap up foods because there is no thirsty mechanism to extract the natural food juices and absorb all moisture in the food chamber.

Miss Lucile Harris, Cooking School Instructor, Releases Favorite Recipes

Graciously Submits to Interview Before Session

Editor's Note:—We persuaded Miss Lucile Harris to give us her favorite meals, using the cooking school recipes which she is demonstrating this week. She has written such an article for each day of the school. We suggest these menu suggestions be clipped and filed with the recipes handed out at the school.

By Miss Lucile Harris
I wish I could go home with each of you, after the cooking school is over, and help you "get up" a whole cooking school dinner! Though each recipe I give you will find itself at home in many meals, I know, there are certain special meals which are my favorites. Perhaps you would like to know what they are.

Rib Roast for Sunday's Feast
Since the week begins on Sunday, the week's planning of family meals may well start with Sunday. And for that special occasion, what is better than the "king of roasts," the standing rib roast of beef? Here is my very favorite old fashioned Sunday dinner.

Standing Rib Roast of Beef
(Cooking school recipe)
Browned Potatoes
Mashed Turnips
Chinese Salad Medley
(Cooking school recipe)
Molded Coffee Sponge
(Cooking school recipe)

Just try this meal some Sunday soon and see if you don't like it too. And that roast of beef will be delicious sliced cold.

Sauerbraten Is Always Good
A really substantial dish, good for any day or season when appetites are keen, is sauerbraten. This is a way of preparing cuts such as rump or chuck of beef, by softening the connective tissue in a marinade of vinegar and oil seasoned to add a savory piquancy to a pot-roast. For a sauerbraten dinner, try the following menu:

Sauerbraten
(Cooking school recipe)
Red Cabbage
Browned Potatoes
Pear and Nut Salad
Rice Custard.

Such a meal is a good economical one which satisfies in a family where there are growing children and hard-working men.

A New Way With Roast Veal
Sometimes a new way with a familiar dish adds appetite appeal to a meal. A roast of veal, cut from the shoulder, rolled, with the bone removed and with frankfurters inserted, is good for a Sunday roast, or on any other day. Here is a meal I like:

Savory Roast
(Cooking school recipe)
Creamed Onions
Browned Potatoes
Piquant Fruit Salad
(Cooking school recipe)
Chocolate Robins
(Cooking school recipe)

And by the way, do not fail to try that recipe for chocolate robins given at the cooking school. It is a delicious confection suitable to serve with tea, to have on hand as a snack after a four-hand game of cards or other evening gathering, or to serve as the dessert for a meal.

Corned Beef Hash With Bananas
Good old corned beef hash takes on new charm when it is served with bananas, one of my favorite combinations of flavors. Try this meal on your family:

Corned Beef Hash and Bananas
(Cooking school recipe)
Stewed Corn
Cinnamon Pinwheels
(Cooking school recipe)
Chocolate Pudding

The cinnamon pinwheels are made from the homemade biscuit mixture I told you about the first day of the cooking school. They can be made in a jiffy and your oven will be already heated for the hash.

A Delicious Luncheon
Left-over meats must be prepared in tempting fashion in every well-run household. Some of the dishes prepared from the remnant of the Sunday roast are unusually fine. This luncheon menu is good enough for a company meal.

Luncheon Ring
(Cooking school recipe)
Celery Stuffed with Cheese
Stewed Apples
Jiffy Cake

(Cooking school recipe)
The luncheon ring consists of cooked veal, cut in cubes in cream sauce with vegetables and mushrooms, served in an egg dressing ring which is featured on the cooking school program second session.

Another Good Luncheon
When in doubt, choose lamb chops, seems to be the motto of many planners of party luncheons, and it is a good motto, too. The chops need not always be rib or loin chops, however. Choose chops cut from the rolled shoulder of lamb next time. You'll find them decidedly satisfactory. The following menu makes a tempting luncheon on any occasion.

Roll Shoulder Lamb Chops
(Cooking school recipe)
Creamed Potatoes
Little Carrots and Buttered Peas
Frozen Fruit Supreme
(Cooking school recipe)
This meal may be heavier than you wish for a luncheon, but I assure you it tastes just as good when served as a dinner!

Lamb Riblets a Tempting Dish
Pleasing variety may be added to the family meals by serving such dishes as the lamb riblets now and then. This is one of those dishes which please both taste and pocketbook.

Lamb Riblets with Green Beans
(Cooking school recipe)
Browned Potatoes
Mixed Fruit Salad
Latticed Cherry Pie
(Cooking school recipe)

Someone may tell me the lamb riblets are just a different way of making a lamb stew. Perhaps so, but the flavor of lamb is delicious whether called a "stew" or "riblets." You will like the ease of serving the riblets.

A Way of Serving Liver.
For the health of the family serve liver frequently. There will be no complaint if the liver comes to the table as liver cones, in a meal such as this:

Liver Cones
(Cooking school recipe)
Hashed Brown Potatoes
Green Gage Salad
(Cooking school recipe)

The green gage salad adapts itself equally well as a salad or as a dessert. The tart flavor is good with the remainder of this meal.

An Oven-Dinner.
Her casserole is one of the best friends of the busy housewife. An oven meal is a good way to save time, fuel and effort. Spanish Casserole fits nicely into the menu for such a meal. For example, I like this one:

Spanish Casserole with Link Sausages
(Cooking school recipe)
Baked Potatoes
Lettuce Salad
Canned Peaches
Old-fashioned Spice Cake
(Cooking school recipe)
You will want to try the old-fashioned Spice Cake recipe. It is a delicious, tender cake made with lard, and it remains moist and fresh for several days, if your family is small.

When to Serve Pierogies.
Pierogies, those delicious tidbits, made according to a Russian recipe, can be used to good effect on many occasions. They are little meat-filled pastries and are especially good with soup or salads.

Served with the jellied vegetable loaf shown at the cooking school they may appear on any luncheon or dinner menu.

Meat Important.
"Among the changing ideas in this always changing world is the importance now attached to meat in the child's diet," says Miss Harris, who because of her standing as a dietitian is frequently asked questions on this and similar topics. "Several years ago, authorities on child nutrition were somewhat in doubt about the place of meat. Then, when the value of liver in preventing and curing anemia was discovered, this food was held indispensable in the child's diet."

"It seems reasonable to believe that meat, with its high quality protein, should be of even greater benefit to the child, whose body is growing rapidly, than it is to the adult. And in fact many doctors now advise meat at least once a day for every child as soon as he is old enough to chew it."

"A very interesting study which showed the value of meat in the diet of school children was carried on by Dr. Robert S. Herzog of Northwestern University Medical School," Miss Harris continued. "A group of 55 children from grammar schools in a poor section of a large city were selected and their physical conditions and social histories most carefully studied. He found that 84 per cent of them suffering from varying degrees of anemia."

"Hot lunches were fed daily to this group, half of them being given a dish which included meat and half a hot meatless dish of the same calorie value. At the end of the study, those children whose lunch included meat showed decided improvement in condition over the other group. This is further evidence, Dr. Herzog concluded, that generous amounts of meat should be included in the diet of children, especially those of school age."

Miss Harris emphasized the fact that a lack of means is not always the reason for the child's insufficient diet. Children from well-to-do families sometimes are given too little meat because mothers do not realize its importance.

As Dan A. Reams, former Paw Pawite, and only surviving member of Co. K 75th regiment, Illinois of the Civil War, his friends are always glad to hear from him and he writes occasionally of his experiences. He writes to his friends:

"As I have written many times of my services in the 75th regiment and especially Co. K I left off after the battle of Perryville on the 8th day of October, 1862. The morning of the 7th, there were 92 left that answered roll call in Co. K, and the next morning there were 38. A bullet struck me which I had taken out, the wound dressed and then helped to bury the dead and nurse the wounded. Our Colonel, Dr. George Ryan, was under arrest for not getting the guns for the regiment until the morning of the 8th. Lieut. Col. Bennett had charge of the regiment. As soon as the wounded ones were able they were taken to their home and did not return to their company. Here are the names of some: First Lieut. William H. Thompson, Frank Altherton, John A. Hunt, Steve A. Tarr, William Deen, Frank Radley. At my age I can't write much at a time and will tell more later on. Daniel A. Reams.

The locals played a fine brand of ball throughout in marking up their second victory.

Band Concerts, Merchants
The first band concert of the summer was held Saturday evening under the direction of Prof. Neil Fox. There was a very large crowd in town and the band was at its best. None of the stores were opened. They had all closed at 11:30 for the day, a very worthy and commendable thing to do on Memorial Day. You will have to find many miles and visit many towns to find a town where the merchants are more loyal to their community than right here in our town. They are always ready to contribute to any worthy cause, it is the merchant that is always asked first to give, to everything. We sometimes wonder just why it wouldn't be a good idea to remember the home merchant when this one and that one from out of town calls at your door to sell this and that and the other thing which is carried by someone of our local merchants. Wouldn't it be a good idea to say kindly to these traveling salesmen "We must trade with our own merchants. They keep our town going." What would become of our town were it not for the merchants. These are just suggestions it is your money and naturally you have a right to spend it just as you see fit, but after all is said and done had we no merchants we would have no town. Boost your town, talk up your merchants. The recent Community picnic proved just what can be accomplished when the entire community pull together. Soon the band concerts will start for the regular Saturday night. The merchants and community invite everyone to be present and enjoy the band. You will find your friends are here. We will publish the date and program of the first concert. Watch these items for both.

Presbyterian Choir
The members of the Presbyterian church choir enjoyed a social hour Friday evening after the usual practice. Mrs. Morton Dockery and daughter Miss Helen were received into the choir, with sincere welcome. Miss Florence Blekking and brother Earl who are soon leave the town were given a farewell by the choir members. Ice cream and nabiscoes were served. The affair was planned by Mrs. Wm. Black, director of the choir.

Beautiful Flowers
About a week ago it looked like the flowers would be scarce for Memorial Day. Owing to the early flowers having come so very early this year. But such was not the case as the date peonies, iris, lilacs, bleeding hearts, snowballs and other flowers were in abundance. It is seldom that there are so many different kind of flowers the last of May as was this year. The cemetery was never more beautiful than over the week end, with the many beautiful bouquets of flowers on the graves. Nearly all the lots had the grass cut on them this year, which has not always been done. This gave the flowers a better chance to be seen. In a drive around the town to peonies, iris, mock orange blossoms and other flowers make the town very lovely. The beautiful iris beds are being spoken of, one at the home of A. J. Stewart and the other at the Miss Alice Fitch home.

Farewell Dinner
The Aid society of the Methodist church had a very enjoyable scramble dinner Thursday at the church. The dinner was in honor of Mrs. H. R. Schmidt, Mrs. Leland Hanson and Mrs. O. K. Thompson all of whom are leaving the community this month. After the lovely scramble dinner a short program was enjoyed. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Roy Shoemaker, the vice president, Mrs. F. E. Duncan presided. Talks were given by Mrs. George Spangler, Miss Dorothy Durkes and Rev. Winter. Mrs. Chas. Schmucker favored with two solos. At the close of the program Mrs. Duncan in behalf of the society presented Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Thompson with a gift from the society. Each lady responded very graciously. The group then separated and each of the three circles held their business meetings, after which a social hour was spent while the ladies made over forty wreaths which were used Memorial Day, for the soldiers' graves. It has been the custom for years for the ladies of both the Methodist and Presbyterian churches to make the wreaths. A most happy time was enjoyed and one that in days to come will bring pleasure to the ladies who will have made their homes in our towns, and where the best wishes of a large circle of friends will go with them.

Mrs. H. R. Schmidt and daughter Miss Marie left Monday morning for Charles City, Ia., where they will visit relatives. Miss Marie has taught in the high school for the past several years and while here has made many friends not only among the pupils but the patrons of the school as well. She is leaving a large circle of friends who will wish her all the good things of life whatever vocation she may choose.

The first of September Mrs. Schmidt came to this town with her daughter Miss Marie, rented the late Mrs. Hannah Conion house and has resided here for nine months, in which time she made many friends all of whom are really glad and called it a privilege to have known her. Mrs. Schmidt at once identified herself with the Aid society of the Methodist church, the Woman's Foreign Missionary society and the Woman's club, and to all of these she has been a worthy helpful member always ready and willing to do her share. It was with indeed sincere regrets that her friends see her leave the community, but like her daughter Miss Marie the friends are wishing her content in her new home.

Memorial Day
One of the most perfect days that we have had in years was Saturday, Memorial Day. Early Saturday morning auto load after auto load of flowers were taken to the cemetery to decorate the graves of the loved ones. The cemetery was beautiful. One of the largest crowds that has been here for some time was present. For the past several years, Memorial Day has been combined with a Homecoming. Many former residents were here Saturday from California, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota, and other places. While there is always a touch of sadness about Memorial Day there is with it another touch of real pleasure in greeting the old time friends.

At 1 o'clock veterans of all wars and Sons of Veterans assembled at the Legion hall, at which time the Franklin Grove band assembled on Main street and played selection after selection while the line of march was being formed at the Presbyterian church. At 1:30 the line of march started for the cemetery headed by the American Legion, which was followed by Fred Kippler, a wounded World War veteran driving his automobile in which was our only surviving "Old Soldier" G. W. Ling. The speaker of the day, Atty. Martin Gannon and Rev. C. P. Blekking. Following this the Franklin Grove band, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Sons of Veterans, and the squads of children and their leaders. Eighty-five squads were needed this year.

At the cemetery the first on the program was the decoration of graves at the firing of volley by firing squad. During the decoration of the graves the band played a selection, after which all gathered around the Cenotaph where Post Commander read from the American Legion ritual, prayer was offered by the post chaplain, which was followed by music from the band. Post Sergeant-at-Arms decorated the Cenotaph, in memory of all unknown soldiers, after which taps was sounded and the line of march was reformed and proceeded to the camp grounds, where the program was continued. The band played a selection after which Rev. C. P. Blekking offered prayer, a group of girls from the grade school sang a number. Charles Baker, Jr., gave a reading which was followed by Scott Smith with a vocal solo: the Girls' Glee club of the community high school with Miss Lyford at the piano, sang "Dear Land of Hope."

The speaker of the afternoon was then introduced by the president of the day, George L. Spangler, Atty. Martin Gannon, who gave a splendid Memorial address, which was well received. At the close of the address the band played "Star Spangled Banner" Rev. C. P. Blekking closed the Memorial Day exercises with the benediction. A day long to be remembered.

Commencement Exercises
The Franklin Grove Community high school commencement exercises were held in the Methodist church Thursday evening. The Junior class had the church beautifully decorated with flowers and streamers of the class colors, light blue and silver. The class motto, "Today We Launch; Where Shall We Anchor" had a very prominent place.

The community orchestra gave a prelude which closed with the commencement march. It was indeed very beautiful and inspiring as well when the senior class of seventeen with the school faculty marched to their places on the platform. The class was followed by the eleven bright boys and girls who were graduating from the eighth grade into high school who took their places in the front seat. The invocation was given by Rev. C. P. Blekking, which was followed by a vocal duet by Misses Georgia Peterman and June Hatch, "Indian Love Call." The address of the evening was given by Professor S. A. Hamrin of the Illinois State Normal University. Supt. L. T. Hanson in a few well chosen words presented the diplomas to both classes.

The address by Prof. Hamrin was one of the best that has ever been given here. Full of wit, yet underneath the wit, was sound good advice to the graduates. Rev. Paul Studebaker closed the exercises with the benediction.

Dedication Service
A touching and beautiful service was held at the grave of Mrs. Lucy Brayton Tolman-Cook, between the Memorial exercises at the cemetery and the camp ground. The Rev. Clarence W. Lahman, class of 1880 said: "In fond remembrance of Lucy B. Tolman, the gentle, conscientious considerate school girl of the class of 1883, whom some of us so well knew; we here pause to dedicate this stone, as marking the final resting place of the body and whatever else remains aside from the spirit. We remembering the inspired words of the Apostle Paul. 1st Cor. 15:51, 52. 1st Thess. 4:15-17. Prayer, 1st Thess. 5:23."

Frank C. Brayton, Lyons, Iowa, so well and favorably known in Franklin Grove, continued: "In the name of my mother, I lay this wreath upon the grave of Lucy Brayton Tolman Cook. She died as she had lived, honorable to the earth from which she came; worthy of the Heaven to which she aspired. In her name I quote these words:

"When you come to my grave all I ask is a prayer
For the spirit that quickened the dust lying there
And when far from my grave, that your prayer shall not cease
Till forever we meet in the Kingdom of Peace."

Miss Dottie Hussey, descendant of twenty-two of the pioneers of our village, spoke distinctly:

"I lay this wreath in honor of the granddaughter of Nathaniel C. Yale, who came in 1836, and Silas P. Tolman of March 1837. For the school girls of the White school house, superintended by Professor T. W. Scott, Mrs. Vina Stewart Noble of Chicago, gave an extemporaneous eulogy of great pathos."

Miss Adella Helmershausen closed the dedication, by thanking all who remembered their school mate, in the name of Miss Mayme McKenney and Miss Anna E. Coyle of Chicago, surviving members of the class of 1883.

Entertaining Friends
Re-union of famous Sabbath school class seventy-one years ago in the Union S. S. organized by Professor T. W. Scott, Miss Mary Bradstreet later Mrs. Charles Helmershausen Jr. taught a class famous for its gifted service. At high noon on Memorial Day two of the members were permitted to lunch in the home of their deceased teacher, her daughter, Miss Adella

Helmershausen acting as hostess. These members were F. C. Brayton of Lyons, Iowa and Mrs. Ella Miller of this place. Madeline Kelley represented Mrs. Mary Bill Maiden, Dottie Hussey, Mrs. Maud Seist Hussey, E. L. Fish regretted not being able to represent his father, Edwin Lamont Fish. Others present were Mrs. F. C. Brayton, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Rand of Lyons, Iowa. Miss Grace Pearl was remembered with a delightful lunch.

Picnic a Grand Success
The first community P.-T. A. was held Wednesday in the school yard, was a most decided success in every way. The weather man was on the job with ideal picnic weather. The community picnic took the place of the separate room and class picnic. Everybody in the entire community worked for the picnic. All the stores of the town closed at 12 o'clock and remained closed until 2 o'clock but most of the men remained on the school grounds and the stores did not open until 4 o'clock. There were four hundred and fifty present, one of the largest events ever held here. The farmers left their fields and brought the entire family to the picnic.

At 10:30 a program was given, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Black and her committee. The girls' glee club of the high school opened the program with the singing of "Lullaby Moon." The piano had been moved to the school lawn and the singing in the open air was fine. Miss Colwell of the primary room presented the Midget Wedding, bridegroom Billy Herbst, bride, Janet Miller; attendants, Junior Sister, Wanda Marie Spangler, Dottie Hussey, Lavon Gilbert, ushers, Maurice Heckman and Melvin Watson; minister, Berkley Duncan. The boy's glee club then sang "Down South" and "When Song is Sweet." The Maypole dance by the pupils of the second and third rooms was a very lovely sight and perfectly done, under the direction of the teachers. Prof. Paul Vaupel and Miss Lahman Clifford Blocher, president of the P.-T. A. in a few well chosen words welcomed all to the picnic. Superintendent Leland Hanson presented the trophy which was accepted by Ralph Hanson, captain of the track team, Rev. O. D. Buck made a few remarks. Then followed a most wonderful dinner under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Bolcher and her committee, which was served cafeteria style. The committee on arrangements was Fred C. Gross as chairman, had tables and chairs and benches enough to seat every one in comfort. The graduates and faculty were seated at a special table which the committee had planned which was decorated in blue and silver the senior class colors. The centerpiece was a blue and silver ship, the class motto being "Today We Launch; Where Shall We Anchor?" A large bouquet of blue and white flowers was on either end of the table. The place cards were miniature diplomas tied with blue and silver ribbons. The table brought forth many words of admiration.

After dinner the school band played several selections, and as had been planned by the committee on races and contests with Walter Heckman as chairman the afternoon was spent in jolly sports.

The P.-T. A. wishes to thank all the committees for their untiring efforts to make the picnic the success that it was. It means just a lot of hard work to complete such a successful affair and everyone, committee and all were ready. Then to the very hearty cooperation of the entire main street and the generous contributions. The merchants as was stated closed their store and with their families were present at dinner. Then too the farmers of the community are to be commended in leaving their fields of labor and spending the day with the town folk. One grand success and a day that will linger long in the minds of those who attended and will look forward to another one next year as no doubt this will be a

HOME BUREAU GIVES

INFORMATION ON SITE

IMPROVEMENT OF HOMES

Homemakers who are engaged in improving their property will be interested in the following report which is sent out by the local department of the Home Bureau. "With increased farm earnings for the past few years, Illinois farmers and homemakers are turning their attention to improving the looks of the home site, according to Max G. Fuller, landscape gardening extension specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

He reports that educational and demonstrational projects in rural landscape gardening now are in progress in 44 Illinois counties with 14 others holding special meetings.

"The purpose of the program is to teach the people of rural Illinois that it is possible to make their homes more attractive, efficient, and valuable by proper landscaping," Fuller said. "A second objective is to demonstrate that this landscaping need not cost more than a reasonable sum of money nor require undue additional hours of work in busy seasons."

A series of informational meetings have been held in 34 counties, in 20 of which demonstrational projects will be established in the near future. These informational meetings are scheduled by the farm or home adviser and consist of a series of lectures on planning a farmstead, lawns and lawn making, trees and shrubs and flowers and the flower border.

Later three representative farmsteads are selected for demonstrating to the group that a worthwhile landscape development of the farm home grounds is within the reach of every farmer. County tours are arranged after the demonstration had progressed sufficiently to show results. After seeing the value of such work, farmers may carry on the activities on their own place themselves or through the services of local landscape architects.

"The demonstration phase, well planned and guided in its development by the landscape extension service, is sponsored as an educational activity," Fuller said. "The demonstration farmsteads will provide actual examples of practical and economical landscape developments of a type within the reach of every average Illinois farmer. In the county tours important pointers and practical methods are stressed so that all of the county group may benefit by the work being carried on."

Demonstration projects are now under way in Adams, Marshall, Putnam, Peoria, Bureau, Woodford, Lake, McDonough, Effingham and Tazewell counties. Work on demonstration farmsteads will soon start in Saline, Pope, Livingston, Hancock, McHenry, Fulton and Vermilion counties.

Fifth Grade Arithmetic

By CLARENCE W. FACKLER

Assistant Professor of Economics, New York University

It begins to look as if there is a grain of truth in the old proverb that proffered services smell bad. Many economists presenting reasonable programs for recovery have discovered this new truth. The politicians have turned their faces to the windward of their own theories, even though, exploded, seem to have a much more pleasing aroma.

more with the appraisers than with the programs.

For example, many careful analysts have recommended a classified census of the unemployed as a basis for an intelligent treatment of labor and relief problems. Plans have been legion for less oppressive taxes and for the removal of inflationary threats, to encourage the investment of some $70,000,000,000 of long-term capital. Not a few straight-thinking men have advocated the immediate abandonment of public competition with private business, and the cessation of further nationalization. A real stimulation of foreign trade has been urged in almost every edition of the nation's newspapers since 1933.

In all, the object has been to increase sales, to lower costs, and to increase employment. But to those committed to "trial and error" planning, these proposals apparently are only the nostrums of hair-brained "counselors" who find extreme delight in turning the "cold shower" of discouragement on the already disheartened and foot-weary unemployed. Consider instead, say the politicians, the Eighteenth Century remedy of making "reductions of hours of work per week," keeping "at the same time" the average individual's pay envelope at least as large as it is today. "1,000 miles is all I ever try to get from a tankful of Red Crown"

admits—Mrs. Sarah Sashweight

Mrs. Sashweight, nee Sadie Maguire, has often campaigned for the State Legislature, and will be remembered as one of the leaders of the pre-war fight for more leap years. Her frequent speeches before the "Tall Stories Club" are always eagerly awaited.

"ONE happy day last February (or was it January?—No, February—Well, anyway...) I decided to use Red Crown exclusive, for awhile—stead of shopping 'round for gasoline. I heard tell it was the latest motor fuel you can buy. But I wasn't ready for the surprise I got.

"Why, I find I can't use a tankful of Red Crown in a month—just can't do it! After 1,000 miles the tank's still half full. So I've hit on just the thing to do about it!

"To keep my Red Crown always fresh—always full of that lively Live Power—I drain it out every thousand miles and fill 'er up again!

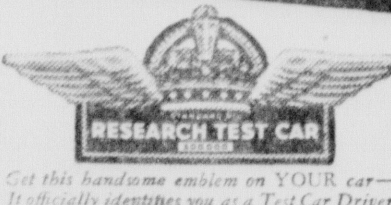

"Silly!" says my husband, Ted Sashweight. But that just shows you how 'silly' some men are! He drains out his oil every thousand miles from his car and I drain out my gasoline... Could anything be more logical, I ask you?"

We like Mrs. Sashweight's independence but we don't believe a word of her story about Standard Red Crown.

We know that Standard Red Crown delivers fully as many miles per gallon as any other gasoline on the market, if not more... because this gasoline has "more live power per gallon", which means less waste power per gallon.

But, to dispose of fanciful ideas which may exist about gasoline mileage, Standard is now conducting the most extensive road test ever attempted.

PANTHERS SPLIT TWIN BILL OVER DOUBLE HOLIDAY

Won From Nelson Cardinals and Then Lost to Maytown Team

The local team had no trouble in avenging the defeat from Nelson when they handed them a 11-1 defeat.

Whitebread again assumed the mound duties for the locals and did a nice job of it by allowing only five scattered hits for one run which was unearned.

The Panthers big inning was the seventh when they bunched five hits; four of which went for extra bases. Before Ortigies could finally retire the side the entire team had batted around, and six runs had crossed the plate which was enough to sew up the ball game.

LOST TO MAYTOWN 8-6

Those Panthers went to Maytown Sunday and had a nip and tuck game with a powerful hitting Maytown nine. Flanagan pitched a wonderful game although allowing sixteen hits. A few costly errors in the outer garden gave the Maytowners three unearned runs which were a deciding factor of the game.

Vickery started on the mound for Maytown but was taken out in the sixth inning due to wildness. He had given up seven hits, seven walks which accounted for six of the Panthers runs. Bonuschi then relieved Vickery and held the Panthers scoreless for the remaining four innings with his baffling change of pace pitching.

The locals held the lead until the sixth inning but a walk and three singles in the sixth put two runs over the plate to send the Maytowners into the lead which they held the rest of the game.

Dickey Will Leave Hospital Sometime Today: Will Rest

Boston, June 3—(AP)—Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher who suffered a kidney injury in a collision with Eric McNair of the Red Sox at home plate last week, will leave St. Elizabeth's hospital today, Dickey said he would return to New York for a two weeks rest before rejoining his team.

San Francisco, June 3—(AP)—Ty Cobb, who ought to know, fears for the batting average of Joe DiMaggio when the men among the spectators begin to shed their coats.

"His hardest days at the plate are just ahead," said Cobb today while discussing the start of the Yankee player in the American league.

"Pretty soon now it'll be as hot as all getout in the eastern cities and the men in the big doubledeck outfield stands will take off their coats. That solid white background will make it much more difficult to hit. If he can continue to murder the ball under these changed conditions he will have no worries."

Aurora, Ill.—Charles F. Crawford, 66, who played from 18 to 36 holes of golf daily during the season and three years ago played at least nine holes a day for 365 consecutive days regardless of weather, died at St. Charles hospital here. DEAN BROTHERS GOING STRONG; CARDS FOLLOW

Have Won Half Games St. Louis Gas House Gang Chalked Up

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Say what you want about those Dean boys—their big-talk and oft-time astonishing antics—but week by week it becomes more apparent that as they go, so goes the gas-house gang from St. Louis.

Stealing a page from the history of Babe Ruth's heyday with the New York Yankees, Dizzy and Daffy are just about the backbone of the National League leaders right now.

Of course, there are such as as Ducky Medwick, Pepper Martin, rookie Stu Martin and the others whose batting has been keeping the Cards up there in the pennant chase, but even they seem to go better when one or the other of the Arkansas brothers is in action.

To date the Cardinals have won 28 games and half of these victories are credited to Paul and Dizzy, yet the Deans represent only one-third of the six starting hurlers Frankie Frisch has on his bench.

Paul Looked Good

Paul never looked better than he did for 8½ innings in a 5-4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. They got to him finally in the ninth, but by that time his mates had the battle sewed up.

In allowing the Daffiness Boys from Brooklyn only six hits and one run in eight innings, he was one of the few throwers who weren't belted all over the lot in yesterday's big-time bill.

Tommy Bridges, leading the Tigers to a 5-4 win over the Athletics, was the only winning hurler to go the route. For the rest, the boys with the bats had all the say—and they spoke up loud, with extra base blows.

Many Hits Recorded

The Pirates clubbed the Bees for 12 hits in winning 5-4. Washington banged out 15 safeties to trim four St. Louis Brown hurlers 15-11, although the Browns held up their end with 19 hits off a pair of pitchers. The White Sox surprised the Yanks 11-9 in a slugfest that saw 30 safe blows, including two homers by Rip Radcliffe, rattle all over the field—and outside it. Boston's Red Sox opened up the power and collected 15 hits in taking Cleveland 14-6, despite the fact the Tribe's war clubs also were swinging and knocked two of the Hub City hurlers off the mound.

At Cincinnati, where night-time baseball made a financially successful 1936 debut before 19,173 fans, Al Hollingsworth couldn't last. He went well until the ninth, when Chuck Klein's homer led a six-run assault to tie the count until Ival Goodman's four-bagger broke it up and gave the Reds a 9-8 win.

The Giants-Cubs game at Chicago was postponed.

WHALES, LARGEST OF ALL ANIMALS, HAVE KEPT SECRET MOST OF THEIR LIVING HABITS.

OF LATE YEARS, HOWEVER, MAN IS ENDEAVORING TO SOLVE THESE SECRETS BY SHOOTING INTO THE ANIMALS SMALL, HARMLESS, SILVER HARPOONS, EACH OF WHICH BEARS A NUMBER. THUS, WHEN THE WHALE EVENTUALLY IS KILLED, ITS TRAILS CAN BE TRACED.

BOA CONSTRICTOR IN THE PARIS ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS WAS FED ONLY 36 TIMES IN SEVEN YEARS.

WHALES cannot be kept in confinement, therefore it is impossible to make studies of their living habits, and the fact that they travel over such wide areas, and dive to such great depths, adds to the difficulty of checking up on them. Although they continue to grow for years, it is believed that the creatures mature at less than three years of age.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, winner of a prize for costume design offered by a large silk manufacturing company, comes to New York to find work. She is hired—due to a stroke of luck by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

DEKEL HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail, and offers her friendly advice. Frequently late sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, ROSEMARY, was her roommate at school.

Meanwhile, in Arizona, MARK HAPMAN, long a wanderer, returns to find his old home in the hands of the Travers Mining Co. Mark suspects the deal is crooked. He does not know the whereabouts of his niece, Gail, rightful owner of the property.

REY HALL, Madame Lizette's son, is representing the Travers company.

Gail goes to spend the week-end at the Searles' home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

THERE was a note of pride in Dick's voice. "That's 'Heart's Delight,'" he said, pointing out the low, white clapboard house with its gray weathered roof, cresting a low hill.

Gail's eyes glowed as she turned to him. She had never known a real home. Ever since her mother's death, when Gail was little more than a babe, she and her father had wandered from place to place—here for a few months, there for a year, but never long enough anywhere to make a home.

The staccato note of an automobile horn brought them swiftly back from the land of romance. Dick glanced in the mirror. "That's the veterinarian," he said. "One of the horses is sick. But this is a fine time to be coming to see the poor brute! I called him before I left home this morning."

"Perhaps he's making a second call if the animal's seriously ill," Gail suggested, as the car flashed past.

"Perhaps," Dick agreed, for with Gail beside him, nothing else mattered.

A few moments later Dick swung into the wide, tree-lined drive, and brought his car to a smooth stop beside the wide porch where Mr. and Mrs. Searles were seated.

"I'm so glad you could come," Mrs. Searles said, and her husband added, "We've been looking forward to seeing you, ever since I told you you were in town. We'll have to hear all about your work."
